City Answers Plea for Aid

Freda Smith told the story appearing in the Sunday issue of this newspaper she had received food and clothing from several readers.

Mrs. Smith expressed gratitude for the help she had, but said that her husband, Lennis, who is a mechanic, is still unemployed.

The family, including their three small children, had to abandon their car when it broke down near Delano when they were returning from work in the harvest recently. Mrs. Smith, who is expecting another child, said all of their clothing was left in their car. They have been staying temporarily with friends.

Study of Child Learning Stated

Teamwork by doctors, psychologists, and teachers can predict and prevent future reading difficulties of preschool children and can overcome those of elementary school youngsters if rehabilitation begins early enough. This theme will be developed by Marianne Frostig, Ph.D., Ivy Mooring, Ph.D., and Kenneth Zike, M.D. as they discuss "New Hope for the Child with Learning Problems" in Fellowship Hall, St. Andrews Presbyterian Church, Redondo Beach, at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 26. Dr. Frostig, director of the Marianne Frostig School for Educational Therapy since 1947, has developed widely acclaimed diagnostic, treatment and training techniques for learning problems that are perceptual, emotional or neurological in origin. Director of research and guidance of the Palos Verdes School District and assistant professor of educational psychology at Long Beach State College, Dr. Mooring is an authority on specialized education in public schools. As head of pediatrics at Harbor General Hospital and assistant professor of pediatrics at UCLA Medical Center, Dr. Zike is well equipped to discuss the role of medical specialties in dealing with the non-learning child.
